Variables x and y are related by the equation y = p - qx where p and q are constants. Values of x and y are measured experimentally. The results contain a systematic error. Which graph best represents these results?

