| ., | Find the value of n . | l |
|----|------------------------------|---|
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
| )  | Find $\Sigma x^2$ .          |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |
|    |                              |   |

 $\Sigma(x-20) = 136,$   $\Sigma(x-20)^2 = 2888.$

A summary of n values of x gave the following information:

5