24 The following information is provided about one unit of a product.

	$
selling price	100
contribution	40
profit	10

The selling price is expected to increase by $10. Costs are expected to remain unchanged.

What will be the change in the contribution to sales ratio?

- 3.64% decrease
- 3.64% increase
- C 5.45% decrease
- D 5.45% increase

25 The following information is available.

	$
unit selling price	36
direct cost per unit	18
selling commission per unit	2
total fixed costs	180 000
total units manufactured and sold	18 000

What was the margin of safety?

- A 37.50%
- B 44.44%
- C 55.56% D 62.50%

- 26 How is break-even revenue calculated?
  - A (total fixed costs + total variable costs) divided by contribution per unit
  - B (total fixed costs + total variable costs) divided by contribution to sales ratio
  - total fixed costs divided by contribution per unit C
  - D total fixed costs divided by contribution to sales ratio